DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP 559533.

In EP 559533, see examples 1-3, corresponding to R3 as t-butyl or isopropyl. The sole difference is that these species have the t-butyl dimethyl silyl group, whereas the claims call for the trimethyl silyl or triethyl silyl. However, page 3, line 18 says that any tri-lower alkylsilyl group can be used, and the TMS and TES groups are entirely conventional.

The traverse is unpersuasive. Applicants argue that the reference is not enabling, because the TMS and TES protecting groups will not survive. Toward this end the Greene reference is cited, which states that the TMS ethers undergo hydrolysis in aqueous methanol with a trace of acetic acid present. However:

A. Even if true, this would only make the TMS compound non-enabled, not the TES. The triethylsilyl ether is approximately 10-100 times more stable than the TMS ether.

B. This is completely speculative. The reference does not have water, does not have methanol, and does not have acetic acid. Therefore, the teachings of Greene seem to have very little to do with the cited reference. It is not clear why applicants expect hydrolysis to occur in a system with no water in the first place. Applicants point to the thionyl chloride, without quite saying what that has to do with anything. The reaction solution is not going to become significantly acidic, because even if some HCl is produced as a byproduct, the pyridine will neutralize it.

C. Even if the TMS group did not survive step 3, one of ordinary skill in the art knows how to put the TMS group back on prior to starting phosphorylation step 4.

Specification

The abstract is objected to as failing to set forth what the "novel intermediate" actually looks like. It is suggested that the formula 1 and either 3 or 4 be put into the abstract.

Information Disclosure Statement

Reference B3 was struck from the IDS as a copy of the actual WIPO document was not provided.

Applicants refer to an earlier "Japanese language document", but the only one received was JP 62-103084. Applicants now refer to providing a copy of the WO document and a copy of the IDS, but these were not received.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
